

Arts for Learning MA Roster Performance Artist Application

Arts for Learning Massachusetts (AFLMA) works with performing and teaching artists, schools, and community partners to develop and implement programming that leverages the many powers of the arts to strengthen learning skills, bring curriculum vibrantly to life, and introduce students to unfamiliar cultures and new modes of self-expression.

Our programming represents a diverse spectrum of arts genres, traditions, cultures, and approaches. Over our 60 years of service, schools, libraries, museums and other learning centers throughout Massachusetts have come to rely on us as the go-to resource for arts learning programs—performances, hands-on workshops, in-depth residencies, and professional development—which are sure to be of the highest artistic quality as well as educational. Arts for Learning Massachusetts is a 501 (c)(3) non-profit and is one of 31 affiliates of Young Audiences, Arts For Learning, the largest arts education non-profit in the country.
